A Little Night Music: That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. Timothy Collier

Mary Evans has always lived in the same small, seaside town where she was born. She runs and owns, Perfect Petals, a local flower shop. Life in this small town is idyllic, however Mary is beginning to find herself being smothered by the constraints of the town and fears that this is all her life shall ever amount to. She had given up on her dream of becoming a painter and making a name for herself - that was until Taylor Marsh, her teenage sweetheart, rolls into town in his luxurious Jaguar, purchases the largest mansion in town and sweeps her off her feet.

But something is different about Taylor. Perhaps it is due to all those years apart, but something about this man who she once loved has Mary feeling noticeably uneasy. Mary finds herself exhilarated by Taylor's return and begins to feel more alive than ever, but at what cost?
