A free spirit with a zest for life, Natasha Simpson loves her new beginning in the small town of Bisbee, Arizona. She has family, friends, and owns a popular small art gallery. She does a little traveling to tradeshow around the country, where her merchandise sells like crazy. Things couldn't get any better.

Special Agent Brooks Allen is pissed as hell when he learns that one of his friend's in-laws is suspected of trafficking drugs. Big time. She's been selling merchandise that is filled with illegal narcotics. Her prints are everywhere and suspected drug dealers are snatching up her merchandise. Brooks has been assigned to follow her to Colorado and get close to her any way he can.

Natasha runs into Brooks when she's in Denver for a tradeshow and spends time with him. She enjoys the company of the man who works with her cousin's husband, and damn, but he's hot.

At the tradeshow, Natasha discovers by accident that the merchandise she's been selling contain cocaine. When she makes the discover, not only is her life threatened, but every member of her family is in danger.

Brooks is certain Natasha is innocent, then discovers the tangled web she's caught in. He's determined to make things right. Along the way he loses his heart to Natasha—now he just needs to make sure he doesn't lose her permanently.
