The diagnostic assessment of writing is an important aspect of language testing which has often been neglected in the literature. However, it is an area which poses special challenges to practitioners both in the classroom and in large-scale testing situations. This book presents a study which set out to develop and validate a rating scale specifically designed for the diagnostic assessment of writing in an academic English setting. The scale was developed by analysing a large number of writing performances produced by both native speakers of English and learners of English as an additional language. The rating scale was then validated using both quantitative and qualitative methods. The study showed that a detailed data-based rating scale is more valid and more useful for diagnostic purposes than the more commonly used impressionistic rating scale.

Kimberly Casselman:

As a university student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher asked them to go to the library or to make summary for some guide, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's spirit or real their passion. They just do what the instructor want, like asked to go to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring and can't see colorful images on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this period of time, many ways to get whatever we wish. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country.
